Rennert Vogel Mandler & Rodriguez Announces New COVID-19 Multi-Disciplinary Response Group

Law firm taps into its core strengths and strategic alliances to launch team offering legal assistance in managing the challenges caused by COVID-19

Miami, Fla. – Rennert Vogel Mandler & Rodriguez, P.A. (RVMR) has established a COVID-19 Response Group to provide its clients with practical guidance to navigate the legal and business uncertainty caused by the current health crisis.

The law firm's COVID-19 Response Group leverages RVMR's team of seasoned real estate transactional, litigation, ad valorem taxation and corporate securities and finance attorneys to act as a resource to offer legal advice as the crisis evolves. It is also mobilizing its longtime strategic alliances with other insurance, tax, local and state government and bankruptcy experts.

Since the outbreak reached Florida, the group has been actively assisting its clients as they interpret and draft documents and agreements with lenders, borrowers, investors, tenants, landlords, suppliers, and employees. It is also spearheading legal and operational plans and strategies to mitigate risk related to ad valorem tax matters and workplace developments, as well as addressing insurance coverage issues for business interruption losses and exploring restructuring and bankruptcy considerations.

Jose A. Rodriguez, who co-chairs the firm's real estate practice, is leading the group.

"Throughout our three-decade history, RVMR has always counseled its clients through their most important decisions," Rodriguez said. "In this constantly evolving situation, it is critical to conduct a multi-level analysis and formulate a comprehensive strategy. We are well-positioned to perform these services in a coordinated manner."
